

Go and make disciples of all nations.
Matthew 28:19

People in the outback live very far away from each other. This can make it hard to do the grocery shopping, go to school, or most importantly, meet people who can tell them about Jesus!

To fix this, the Presbyterian Inland Mission sends people all over outback Australia (and other remote areas too) to share the Gospel. We also help everyday people (like you!) to become better at telling others in your own town, school and community about Jesus.

Jesus said to them, "Follow me,
and I will make you fishers of men."
Matthew 4:19

Over 100 years ago, a man named John Flynn learned that many people in the outback had never heard about Jesus, and there were no churches to fix that!

So John Flynn started sending people out across the outback to share the Gospel. This was the start of the Presbyterian Inland Mission, and today we are still sending people all over outback Australia (and other areas too!) to tell people about Jesus.
